New service for local children with autism

By BRIGIT MCCALLUM
brigit@waterbororeporter.com

Six-year Lake Arrowhead Community resident Tim Folley has started a new local practice to serve children with autism, their parents, caregivers and teachers. His new practice, called Social Significance, is an agency that helps caregivers make successful choices in helping children with autism succeed in school, and in the environments of their lives. One of only 130 board Certified Behavioral Analysts in Maine, Folley's initial plan is to begin working with caregivers in their own environments, eventually to move into a business space in Waterboro, and down the road, to create a center for working with autistic children and those who care for them.

A veteran of working with people with behavioral issues, in schools, psychiatric hospitals, residential schools, in-home and in community agencies, Folley says he wanted to be a teacher, but felt he could have a better effect working with the psychological dimension of what people struggle with. "I bring all that experience to a small geographical area and I think this is something I can offer to local families and schools," said Folley.

Most recently on the staff of Community Partners of Biddford, working with adults with developmental disabilities, Folley describes the professional practice of behavior analysis as ranging from treatment of individuals with autism and developmental disabilities, to behavioral coaching and behavioral psychotherapy. Most of his experience is working with children, and at this time, because state laws have changed to require insurers to provide families with individuals with autism increased benefits, he felt it was a perfect time to move in a direction he'd been hoping to move in. Until recently, what benefits were provided to insured families, only covered children up to the age of ten. The new insurance regulations require coverage of up to $36,000 a year from birth to age 21. And, as a state that ranks high in autism rates, more services will be needed as insurance coverage increases.

Folley is signing up with insurance providers to become a member of their networks, has formed an LLC, hired an accountant and a medical billing specialist versed in autism claims and is getting policies in place. As all of this is progressing, Folley has also been hired part-time as a consultant to the Fryeburg and Conway, New Hampshire school systems, which is making it possible for him to transition into full-time work with autism.

Folley holds a Master's Degree in Educational Psychology from USM and is applying as a remote student to Southern Illinois University's doctoral program in Applied Behavior Analysis. He will be teaching a 40-hour Registered Behavior Technician course for high school graduates through Massabesic Adult and Community Education starting in January.

Teacher awarded Honors in International Ocean Awareness student contest

The contest challenges students and teachers to combine the arts, science, and ocean advocacy.

Massabesic High School science teacher Kerra Gearinger recently received a Sponsor Recognition Award of $750 in the Ocean Awareness Student Contest. Over 20 of Gearinger's students submitted to the contest, which challenges students to combine art, science, and environmental advocacy to give our oceans a voice.

"The ocean has fascinated me since I was a child. Therefore, it has been a privilege for me to share that passion with my students. My oceanography class displayed a true sense of dedication and work ethic to allow their artwork to come to life for a great cause. We were able to discuss, research, and eventually create wonderful pieces of art highlighting the impact humans so greatly have on our oceans," said Gearinger.

This year, the contest prompted students to consider "Our Oceans, Our Plastic" to direct attention to the growing international problem of ocean plastic pollution. While the contest has run for the last four years – focusing on issues such as right whale conservation and sea bird restoration – this is the first year that the contest has been open to middle school students. Bow Seat Ocean Awareness Programs, the international ocean conservation non-profit that hosts the contest each year, plans to give out over $50,000 to the winners of the middle and high school divisions of the contest.

Submissions ranged from essays and stories exploring the cause of plastic pollution, to

Domestic violence awareness month

October is Domestic Violence Awareness month. Waterboro Selectwoman TammyJo Girard knows firsthand about the experience of domestic abuse from her work with the Saco Police Department, and during October, wears a purple scarf and speaks out to make others aware. Caring Unlimited in Sanford is York County's Domestic Abuse center for providing care to women and men experiencing abuse.

Domestic abuse and violence are the most common causes of injury to women in our society—exceeding the number of injuries from auto accidents, muggings and rapes combined. According to Caring Unlimited, in Maine, where domestic violence is the leading cause of homicide, more than 20 percent of all reported domestic assaults happen in York County.

At the recent 12-Town Group meeting at Waterboro Town Hall, Girard read Caring Unlimited's statistics for the town of Waterboro thus far this year. The town provided 476 hours of service to 44 clients from Waterboro in 292 different activity sessions. These services include legal, group, safety planning, shelter and transitional services, according to Girard.

She also shared the results of a study released by the Violence Policy Center to draw attention to the toll of domestic violence, which says that Maine's rate of 1.47 women killed for every 100,000 women living in the state is higher than all but eight other states. The jump to the ninth position in the study was a sharp rise from Maine's rank of 22nd in a similar study in 2012 and 23rd in 2011.

Caring Unlimited is a member organization of the Maine Coalition to End Domestic Violence. It has a 24-hour hotline that can be reached at 1-800-239-7298 or for other matters, contact Sherry Edwards, community response coordinator, at 490-3227, ext. 105.

Activity at Carle's Corner Ice Rink

Activity has started up again at the skating rink site at Carle's Corner/the Taylor House Museum property. Sandi Binette says, "The season is coming fast and we're gearing up for a great season of skating. We'll be on site laying our water lines so that the ice can be maintained on site. This entire project is local business and community sponsored.

The warming hut, that is also a replica of Leavitt's Store, was recently painted by Gary Richards with paint donated by Plummer's Ace Hardware. Next, folks will be digging for water and electricity. Those interested in helping out can like the Carle's Corner Ice Rink page on Facebook and keep a look out for helping days. There will be upcoming projects and rink set up in the next two months and volunteers are always welcome.

Library news

Starting in November, craft nights will be held the second Monday of the month from 6 to 8 p.m. Patrons and all other interested folks are free to drop in and join in. The November activities will feature cards for Thanksgiving and paper crafts also. All ages including adults are welcome.

The downstairs meeting room is getting a complete makeover, and will hopefully be ready for use by December or January. The air quality is now fine.

An inside wall has been taken down to make the room larger, a new sink and cabinet are being installed, as well as a drop ceiling with new lighting. The old rug is being taken out and new flooring will be laid. It will become a usable space once again, which staff and patrons alike are all looking forward to. For close to a year, story time has been crowded upstairs, and the popular craft programs have interfered with patrons' use of the tables and reading room. A number of scout and other community groups will soon have a place to meet again.

Patrons or others interested can get a Portland Public Library card at the Waterboro Library, to enable you to take items out of the PPL or download audio and e-books. The library also has Ancestry.com, the library version, if you are doing genealogy, as well as online access to popular and more academic databases. If you haven't been to the library for a while, come in or check out their card catalog at www.waterborolibrary.org.

Absentee ballots available

Absentee ballots for the Nov. 3 elections are available for voting at town hall or to take home and mail in, through Oct. 29 at 5 p.m.

sculptures and dresses crafted completely out of discarded beach plastics. The artists and their work will be featured in real-world exhibition and distribution projects that will be coordinated with Bow Seat's international partners over the coming year. Each project will aim to spread awareness of plastic pollution and ocean conservation to the public by engaging the public with the teen's art, poetry, writing, and films.

"Jacques Cousteau said that people protect what they love," says contest founder Linda Cabot. "While science and technology are critical to understanding our planet and deciding what to do next, alone they aren't enough to inspire long-term cultural shifts. Humans aren't purely rational creatures. That's why we need to convey creative narratives like stories, poetry, film, and visual art — they engage our emotions and our heart. We need to use our heads and our hearts so that we can protect this planet that we love," said Cabot.

The high school winners of the contest can be viewed online, and the 2016 Contest will open in November and run until next June. Visit fromthebowseat.org to see all the winners and more information.

Halloween stroll

“What will you be?” is the hot topic at Alfred Elementary School because the annual Halloween Stroll will take place Friday, Oct. 30 from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. The witches and goblins parade from one classroom to another, displaying their costumes and collecting candy. Then they will visit the gym for the game night, moving from one game to another to practice their skills in a variety of competitions.

Next week the school will hold an Appreciation for Bus Drivers day with a free meal in the cafeteria.

This Friday, Oct. 16 everyone could attend school dressed as their favorite storybook character. Will it be Star Wars? Or a favorite Disney character? There is a lot of excitement about choices.

Students in grades 1-5 are completing their NWEA testing, which is an online test. Results will be compared to that of other students in RSU 57, also with students in other states. Parents will learn the results at the end of the first trimester. The assessment is in the areas of reading and math and is given three times a year. For more information, email or call cindypellerin@rsu57.org.

There will be an early release day on Wednesday, Oct. 21, at 12:30 for all RSU 57 elementary schools.

The Parent Student Handbook is posted on the school webpage.

The Alfred firefighters will be visiting the elementary school to discuss fire safety next week. The book fair is coming up in November.

Last week youngsters enjoyed a field trip to Gile Orchards. Each child returned with a small bag of apples.

Hannaford’s is providing an opportunity for schools to earn funds for their school. The details are listed on the school bulletin board. If four products with a particular shelf tag are purchased each week by 100 families a generous fund goes to the school.

Benefit for Old Corner Church

A benefit ham supper for the Old Corner Church on Federal Street will be held Saturday, Oct. 24 from 4:30 to 6:30 at Masonic Hall in Alfred on Route 202. The cost is $8; children under 12 are admitted free.

Youth hockey

A variety of different hockey classes for youngsters begins Oct. 24 at the Biddeford Ice Arena. Fees range from $50 for the youngest children to $750 for the most experienced. Information is available at Alfred Elementary School or contact jim@biddefordyouthhockey.org.

Village notes

Friends of the Alfred Shaker Museum report the talk by Richard Judd given at their museum will be on the Saco River TV, also on the FASM website.

The Country Acoustic Band will perform in Legion Hall on Saturday, Oct. 24, 1 to 4:30 p.m.

The Senior Luncheon given at the Lions Club Den in November will include a turkey dinner. Entertaining the group will be the Massabesic Select Choir. This will be on the first Tuesday of the month, Nov. 3.

Spike in growth

Volleyball program hits Massabesic

By MICHAEL DEANGELIS
mdeangelis@waterbororeporter.com

Massabesic high schools' volleyball program, in its first year, is progressing well says head coach Missy Brandt who, with the aid of athletic director Brendan Scully, got started last fall with practices and development.

This year, the team has played a split varsity/junior varsity schedule, compiling a respectable 6-3 record.

On Saturday, Oct. 10 the Mustangs hosted Gardiner who brought both their varsity and junior varsity squads to Massabesic middle school.

In the junior varsity portion it was all lady Mustangs as they took all three contests despite falling behind 10-6 in the opener. In that game, Massabesic rallied for a 25-16 win. In game two, the Mustangs built a 16-7 lead behind the strength of superb serving from both captains, Sydney Pepin and Haleigh Couture. They closed out game two with a 25-11 win and they built a 16-4 lead in game three, on their way to a 25-7 rout, again with spot-on serving by the senior pair of Pepin and Couture.

Gardiner took the varsity portion of the match-up 2-1. They pounded the Mustangs in the opener 25-6, running out to a 10-1 early lead, but Massabesic, again behind the service of Pepin, jumped out to a 6-0 lead in the middle game.

Gardiner came back, tying the score at 8-8 and the contest see-saw back and forth the rest of the way until Brandt asked for a timeout with the Mustangs trailing 22-19. The lady Mustangs came up big coming out of the timeout, and pulled even at 24, but the next two points went to Gardiner and the Mustangs fell 26-24.

Game three was another see-saw affair early as Pepin and Couture again lead the Mustangs out to an early lead. Gardiner again turned the tide and they lead 10-7 when Brandt asked for another timeout. Once more the message must have been sent as Massabesic settled down and ripped off 10 of the next 12 points to pull ahead 17-12.

They cruised the rest of the way to a 25-15 win.

Mustangs whip Windham Rutledge hat-trick

By MICHAEL DEANGELIS
mdeangelis@waterbororeporter.com

Emma Rutledge had a hat-trick and Logan Champlin and Sophia LaFrance each had a pair of scores to pace Massabesic to an easy 8-3 win over host Windham in varsity field hockey on Saturday, Oct. 10.

The Mustangs (10-3) carried the play for much of the contest, pouring 36 shots on goal in the process, and leaping out to a 4-0 lead at halftime behind scores from Champlin, a pair from Rutledge, and what turned out to be the game-winner from Abby Staples with just under 11 minutes left before the break.

Sophia LaFrance got the Mustangs on the board at 17:39 of the second half, lifting them to a 5-0 lead, but Windham got on the board three minutes later. LaFrance got her second to make it 6-1 and Rutledge finished out the hat-trick at 14:21.

Windham got the next two scores, but Champlin and LaFrance, who had hooked up to start the scoring, closed it in the exact same fashion with the latter assisting the former.

CROSS COUNTRY

Girls tops; boys second at home meet Wisina, Cloutier take silvers

By MICHAEL DEANGELIS
mdeangelis@waterbororeporter.com

The lady Mustangs were first with 21 points (2,3,4,5,7), placing seven runners in the top 10, as Gorham (55) and Thornton Academy (60) battled for the runner-up spot in a cross country meet held in Alfred on Friday, Oct. 9.

Gorhams Anna Slager took the gold with a time of 19:54, but the next four to cross the finish line on the Mustangs' home turf were all from Massabesic. Emily Wasina was second with a 20:59, Kylie Johnson (21:24) was next, Roshelle Morrison (21:32) fourth and Maquila DiMastrantonio (21:39) fifth in what turned out to be a big pack battling hard for spots two through ten.

Proof of that was witnessed by Mustangs Emily Cyr (ninth) and Hallie Benton (10th in 22:34) who weren't far behind Johnson's third place time, and adding a nice piece of team depth.

Gorham finished first with 35 points, edging the Mustangs who were next with 47 (2,5,9,15,16) and well ahead of Cheverus' 72 and Thornton Academy's 83 in boys' cross country.

Josh Veroneau was first in 17:47, Mustang Troy Cloutier was second with an 18:05, Isaac Libby was fifth and Adam Cloutier was ninth.

Both Massabesic teams will head to the western class A regional meet will on Saturday, Oct. 24 in Cumberland. The lady Mustangs won the event last year and they were runner-up to the Scots the year prior.

STATE NEWS

Grants to preserve parks and public lands across Maine

Senators Susan Collins and Angus King, a member of the Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee, have announced that the National Park Service has awarded funding to 10 organizations and municipalities throughout the state of Maine. This funding is provided through the Land and Water Conservation Fund (LWCF), a partnership program that provides matching funds to states and local communities for conservation of parks and open space.

"The LWCF is America's most successful conservation and outdoor recreation program. The LWCF has been instrumental in establishing and maintaining outdoor recreation space in Maine and across our nation. These important investments will help protect and preserve a number of Maine's parks and recreation facilities that are vital not only to our communities, but to our way of life," said Senators Collins and King.

The LWCF is a partnership program that provides matching funds to states and local communities for acquisition, development, and conservation of parks and open spaces.

Despite strong support bipartisan support for the LWCF, on Sept. 30, the authority to collect revenue into the LWCF Fund expired.

"While the program will continue to be funded under the short-term funding agreement beyond the Sept. 30 expiration date, we must act quickly to make certain this critical program is properly supported," Senators Collins and King continued. "We have long advocated for a permanent reauthorization of the LWCF to ensure that this important connection to our nation's conservation effort in Maine and across our country is not lost. We will continue to work with our colleagues on both sides of the aisle to permanently extend our nation's premier federal conservation program."

Senator Collins and Senator King are both cosponsors of bipartisan legislation that would permanently reauthorize LWCF, S. 338.

In September, a bipartisan coalition of 53 senators led by Senators Collins, Patrick Leahy (D-Vt.), Richard Burr (R-N.C.), and Jeanne Shaheen (D-N.H.), and joined by Senator King, authored a letter calling on Senate leadership to permanently reauthorize and adequately fund the nation's premier federal conservation program, now in its 50th year.

In June, Senators Collins and Steve Daines (R-MT) offered an amendment to the Fiscal Year 2016 Interior, Environment, and Related Agencies Appropriations Bill which was approved by the Senate Appropriations Committee and passed as part of the reported bill. The amendment adds another $13.9 million for the LWCF Program, bringing it in line with the current funding level.

In a Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee hearing earlier this year, Senator King called on Congress to permanently reauthorize and fully fund the program, and in July, he voted in support of a bill that would also reauthorize the program.

OPINION

The Wiley Fox and the Crazy Wabbit

Mass Murder is defined as the killing of three or more people in a single act of violence. So far this year, Mass Murder across the United States exceeds more than one for each day of the year. The latest Mass Murder perpetrated by Chris Harper Mercer at Umpqua Community College in Roseburg, Oregon has renewed the torrid debate over gun control. President Obama is promising Executive Action in an effort to increase gun control. Presidential contender Ben Carson theorizes Hitler could not have succeeded in the extermination of six million Jews if Germany's citizenry had not been disarmed. Bumper Stickers throughout the South insist guns don't kill, people do; in spite of the fact that guns are designed to do just that, regardless of whether it is an act of murder, self-defense, or simple hunting. Americans love their guns and do a far better job at killing Americans in America than the combined efforts of all terrorist organizations the Department of Homeland Security is designed to protect us against.

The NRA spends a fortune protecting an individuals right to bear arms based on the Second Amendment: A well regulated militia,

by Jon Simonds

being necessary to the security of a free state, the right of the people to keep and bear arms, shall not be infringed. A militia is civilians trained as soldiers but not part of the regular army. Congress granted itself the power to call upon said militia in the event of an external threat to an individual State or our young Nation as a whole. Think National Guard, which is indeed an individual States Militia. The National Guard pre-dates the nation born in Massachusetts to defend Colonists against the threat of Pequot Indians back in 1636. This kind of throws a wrench in the concept of the ordinary, individual citizens right to bear arms though it is largely accepted that Americans have the right to bear arms. Gun control advocates aren't aiming to disarm America.

Negligent homicide, sometimes referred to as involuntary manslaughter, is often perceived as the death of an individual resulting from negligence. Perhaps there is a Legislator in America with the guts to propose a Responsible Gun Ownership Law from the gun manufacturer to the gun purchaser, regardless of whether said purchaser is a gun dealer or individual owner. Guns are traceable all the way back to the manufacturer just like cars. The operator of a motor vehicle cannot obtain a license without training and passing a test. Many major cities require a battery of psychological tests to determine eligibility in law enforcement. Purchasing guns should not be an easy task. He who owns the gun should bear responsibility for the weapon. This should be as simple as acquiring a driver's license, and failure to act responsibly should carry a cost.

As of Oct. 6, there have been 298 mass murders in the US this year. Nearly 10,000 people have died from guns. Isn't it time we enact Federal Regulation without disarming America?

Jon Simonds lives in North Waterboro and is the author of "Brooklyn Encounters," a collection of short stories available on Kindle.

AUTISM AGENCY

Folley grew up in Salisbury Beach, Massachusetts, met his wife Mary Ann and married in Bennington, Vermont. The couple moved to Waterboro after their apartment in Bennington burned, to be closer to family in Steep Falls. Mary Ann worked as a social worker in Child Protective Services in Biddeford for six years and is now a school social worker at Bonny Eagle Middle School. The Follies have two young sons and are active at the Goodwins Mills Church.

As part of introducing himself to the Waterboro community, and as a fundraiser for his start-up, Folley is hosting "Laughs for Autism," an evening of comedy, headlined by Manchester, New Hampshire based comedian Nick Lavalee, whose performances have been featured on The Laugh Factory shows in Chicago and Las Vegas and can be seen on The Laugh Factory channel. Matt Kona, from the Boston Comedy scene, invited to audition for Last Comic Standing, will also perform, along with local comedian Will Green, a sideline from his work teaching Literacy at Massabesic High School, and Aaron Willows, a Portland comedian who toured with Green. The show will be held on Saturday, Oct 24 at 7:30 p.m. at the Waterboro Grange Hall, 31 West Road, Waterboro. To purchase tickets visit <https://ticketriver.com/event/16682> or call 712-4554.

OBITUARIES

Keith R. Boyle

Keith R. Boyle, 46, of Hollis Road, in Hollis Center, passed away unexpectedly on Thursday, Oct. 8, 2015, at his residence. He was born in Rumford, on Dec. 15, 1968, the son of Robert F. and Patricia A. (Gilbert) Boyle. Keith was educated in Jay schools and was a graduate of Jay High School Class of 1987. He attended the University of Southern Maine and received an Associates Degree in business management.

Keith R. Boyle

Keith then went to work for Toys R Us in their South Portland store and later was a manager in the Somersworth, New Hampshire store. Most recently Keith had been working for Uncle's Farm Stand in Hollis. He enjoyed working with fruits and vegetables and was known for his famous jams and jellies.

Keith loved trips to the ocean, making Christmas wreaths and spending time with the family at Roxbury Pond.

Keith was very fond of the Kane family in Hollis and considered them as his second family.

Keith's family would like to offer a special thank you to the Kane family for all that they have done for Keith.

Surviving are his father, Robert F. Boyle of Peru; a sister Krista L. Boyle of Jay; maternal grandmother Gladys K. Gilbert of Rumford; and a best friend, Greg Kane of Hollis. He was predeceased by his mother Patricia; his maternal grandfather Eugene Gilbert and his paternal grandmother Ethel A. Boyle.

Visiting hours were held on Oct. 14, at SG Thibault Funeral Home. A Mass of Christian Burial was celebrated on Oct. 15, at Parish of the Holy Savior. Interment will be in Demeritt Cemetery at a later date.

Arrangements are under the care of S.G. Thibault Funeral Home, Cremation and Monument Services, 250 Penobscot St., Rumford. Share thoughts, condolences, and fond memories with the Boyle family by visiting their guestbook at www.SGThibaultFuneralHome.com. Local arrangements are with Dennett, Craig & Pate Funeral Homes, 13 Portland Road, Buxton. Contributions may be made in Keith's memory to the Patrick Dempsey Center for Hope and Healing, 300 Main Street, Lewiston, Maine 04240.

Ace Hardware dealers raise more than $20,000

The Southern Maine Ace Hardware Dealers Group hosted its first annual golf scramble to benefit The Barbara Bush Children's Hospital (BBCH) at Maine Medical Center. Held at Sable Oaks Golf Course, the event raised more than $20,000 for the children's hospital.

"The Barbara Bush Children's Hospital is truly honored to have the support of our local Ace Hardware locations," said Kate Richardson, BBCH Development Manager. "BBCH cares for more than 50,000 children each year from every corner of the state. By choosing to support the children's hospital in such a generous way, these Ace stores are undoubtedly supporting children in their very own communities and families who are customers in their stores."

Each year, through a national partnership with Children's Miracle Network Hospitals, Ace locations are encouraged to raise funds for local children's hospitals through a variety of campaigns including five-gallon bucket sales and candy bar sales. This year the Southern Maine Ace Dealer's Group, 16 locally-owned Ace locations, chose to go the extra mile and planned the golf outing to raise additional funds for BBCH.

"After my granddaughter, Teagan Grace, was born three months premature at 1 lb. 7 oz., I spent a lot of mornings, lunch times and evenings visiting the Neonatal Intensive Care Unit at The Barbara Bush Children's Hospital," said Tom Skelton, President of Maine Hardware in Portland. "The staff and doctors were the most wonderful caregivers I have ever had the pleasure of meeting and getting to know. At a Maine Ace Hardware Dealers meeting I brought up how I thought we could organize a golf tournament to raise more significant funds than the standard bucket sales and candy bar programs at our stores had driven. I was proud of the efforts and hard work that we all put in, and absolutely thrilled with the outcome, especially considering it was our first year."

All funds will be used to advance the care provided at BBCH. From well-child visits to specialized medical and surgical treatment of complex, life-threatening illnesses and injuries, The Barbara Bush Children's Hospital offers comprehensive, family-centered care from an exceptional team of doctors, nurses and other medical professionals.

Participating local locations included Plummer's Ace Hardware stores in Buxton, Limerick and Waterboro.

Massabesic Mustangs Stars of the Week

Mite and Peewee Division

In week 6, the Massabesic Junior Mustangs faced the Windham Eagles. The Mustangs played a hard fought game and beat the Windham Eagles 52-0. The Junior Mustangs regular season final game was on Oct. 10 against the Portland Bulldogs at Fitzpatrick Stadium in Portland.

The Mites and Peewee Mustangs took on the Kennebunk Rams at Ronco Field. The Mites

Mustangs beat the Kennebunk Rams during both games. The Peewee Mustangs and the Kennebunk Rams were very evenly matched, but the Rams came out on top.

Stars of the Week is sponsored by J.P. Carroll Fuel Co.
